

Health Care Integrated Solutions

Engineering Concierge – With interoperability, interface engines, complex reporting with specialized tools, and use of web-based applications in workflow, community hospitals need more technical resources than ever before to address vastly different functions. These technical employees can be very difficult to recruit, and managers get caught in a repeating cycle of recruiting, vetting, testing, and hiring. After identifying a technical unicorn in the form of a programmer-interface specialist-web designer with a knowledge of healthcare, community hospitals might not be able to meet salary requirements, competing with organizations that remotely employ. The HCI Solution can help by providing a team of experts that possess the myriad of technical requirements and provide skill-sets crucial for success. These resources can be utilized as much or as little as your hospital requires, with an annual contract for as little as 10 hours per month. Get started today and let us meet or supplement your technical demands.
